

The HAND module

The Metaphor for transformative action

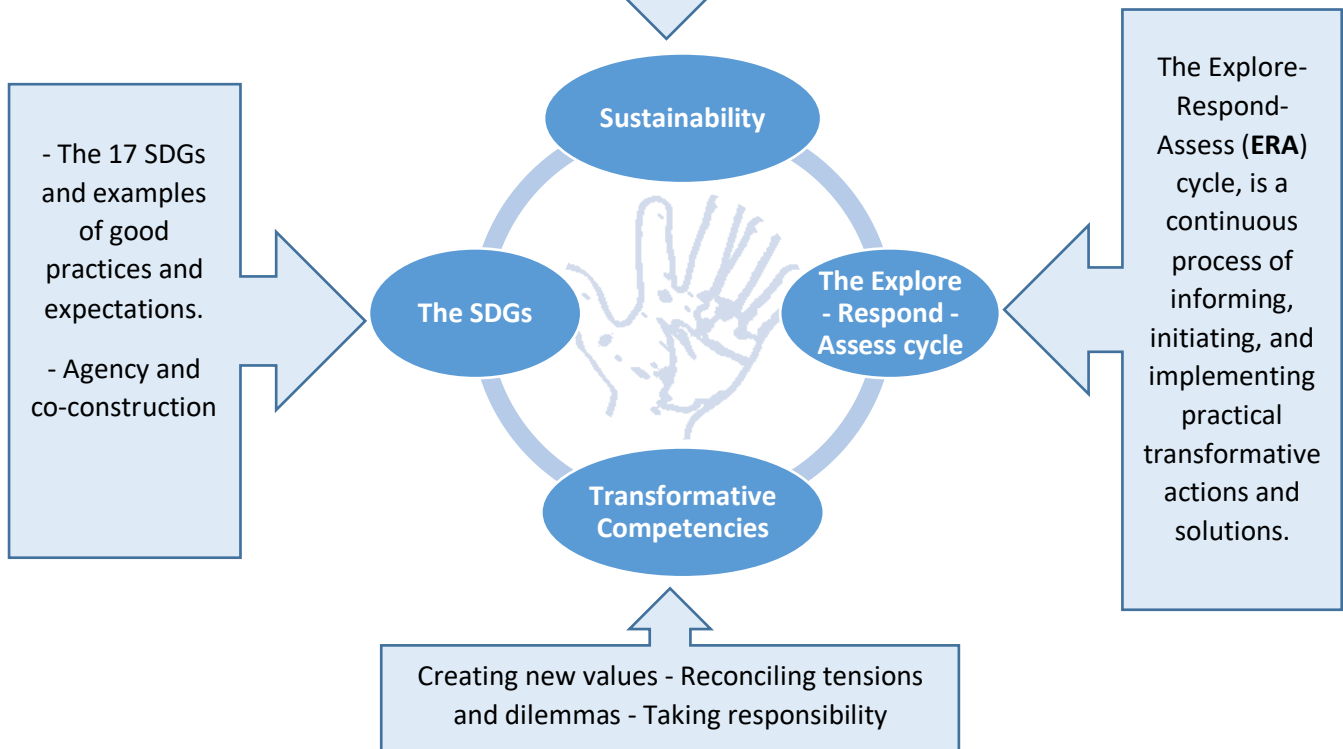

RATIONALE

The Hand module is about facilitating, cultivating and nurturing the concept of co-construction in developing creative, impactful, context specific actions for transformative solutions.

A more systematic approach, enabling a focused and creative action planning process that would guarantee consistency and continuity of qualitative approaches is required.

The four broad themes of THE HAND module

Meeting the needs of a changing world, requires people to be appropriately empowered and assured that they can help shape a world where well-being and sustainability – for themselves, for others, for future generations, and for the planet – are achievable.

Takeaway:

Strategy - The abilities to collectively develop and implement innovative actions that promote sustainability at all levels.

Problem Solving - The overarching ability to apply different problem-solving frameworks to complex sustainability problems and develop viable, inclusive, and equitable solutions that promote sustainable development.

Agency – Be able to consider and adopt the most effective tools and competencies to support individual and corporate actions towards achieving the SDGs
